WASHAKIE COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICT #2 October 2017

Russell Budmayr
Principal

Principal's Corner

Hi Folks,

Didn't it seem like we just got started, and now we are already into October. Attendance has been high, discipline concerns low, and as I make my "rounds" throughout the day, I see teaching and learning taking place. Parent, teacher, student concerns have been minimal. I like to think this is a good sign.

Our sports' teams continue to impress me. Honestly, while winning is nice, it's not that important to me. The fact that we usually have the smallest number of athletes often competing against teams twice our size; the fact that our kids continue to show sportsmanship (whether they are winning or not); and the fact that our kids are not quitters, means more to me than any wins or losses. This "never give up; never quit" attitude will serve them well as they continue their life's journey.

I am looking forward to parent/teacher conferences later this month (Oct. 26th). What a great chance to visit with your child's teacher and touch base on their academic and social progress. It's also an opportunity to examine and reflect on your child's state and national assessments. If your son/daughter is doing well, ask teachers what they are doing to further challenge your child (enrichment). If your child is struggling, ask what the school is doing to address any concerns (interventions).

Numerous studies and common sense will always suggest that the more involved parents are in their child's education, the greater likelihood of success. Attending parent/teacher conferences is one way parents can show their child how much they value education. Let's shoot for 100% parent participation.

I hope you never underestimate your influence on your child's education. While teachers obviously play a huge role, parents, by making sure your child has good attendance, parents by extolling the virtues and benefits of getting a good education, parents by asking questions and dialoging with their children on what's happening at school - all of these things have a definite impact on the success of your son or daughter. It seems worth it to me.

Let's continue to work together. It should almost be an unbeatable combination - good parents working with good teachers to make sure your child is put in the best position to go out into the world and be successful. Let's make it happen.

Stop in sometime and let's talk education!

See you on the 26th.

Mr. Budmayr

Concealed Carry of Firearms by Employees

Wyoming Statute 21-3-132 permits the Board of Trustees of each school district in the state of Wyoming to adopt rules and regulations, in consultation with local law enforcement, to allow the possession of firearms on campus by employees possessing a valid concealed carry permit. The Washakie County School District #2 Board of Trustees is beginning the process of discussing this option for the Ten Sleep School. At the October 9th meeting, the Board of Trustees plan to talk with Sheriff Steve Rakness concerning his thoughts and recommendations on this issue. Interested parents and patrons are encouraged to attend and to express their thoughts about this important matter to members of the board.

Note to Parents

Reinforce the concept of time with your elementary schooler

Teachers put a lot of effort into teaching students about the concept of time. And there's a lot for young students to learn. What is a second, minute, hour and day? What's a week, month and year? What are past, present and future?

The more your child understands time and how it's measured, the more responsible she can be. She can "be ready in 10 minutes" or estimate how much time it will take to do homework.

A real mastery of time doesn't come until later in the elementary years. But the more you can do now to help your child understand time, the better.

Have your child:

1. Select a task to do. She could choose to jump up and down 50 times, draw a picture, complete three math problems, or eat a bowl of cereal.
2. Estimate how many minutes it will take her to complete the task.
3. Use a timer or stopwatch to track the time it takes to complete the task.
4. Check to see how close her estimate was to the actual time it took.

If your child does this—estimating and verifying time—for several tasks, her sense of time will begin to improve.

Use four strategies to turn your middle schooler into a reader

Is your middle schooler less than enthusiastic about curling up with a good book? Help him learn to enjoy reading. Not only will it improve his language skills, it may turn him into a lifelong book lover!

To motivate your middle schooler to read:

1. Lead by example. Research shows that your reading habits can have a huge impact on your child's reading habits. So, let him see you reading for pleasure! Instead of turning on the TV when you get home from work, pick up the newspaper. On weekends, unwind with an entertaining book.
2. Designate daily reading time. Set aside a short period of quiet time each day when the music, TV and computer are turned off. Suggest your child use the time to read. Don't force him, though, because it could backfire. Instead, kick back with your own book and see if he follows your lead.
3. Offer a book allowance. Give your child a small amount of money to spend on books each month. Comics and graphic novels may not be your idea of great literature, but if they inspire him to read, they're perfect!
4. Subscribe to a magazine. Look for a quality publication and consider ordering a subscription for him. Each new issue offers another opportunity to read.

Show your teen how to create a positive online reputation

Teens do most of their communicating on social media. But many don't realize that bad choices online can hurt their chances for the college or job they really want.

Of course, students have the right to free speech. But courts have set limits on what students can say in school. They can't promote drug or alcohol use. They can't use lewd or obscene speech. They can't say things that will disrupt classes or school activities.

And there's a big difference between what students are allowed to do and what they should do online. Colleges and employers check out students on social media.

Check his privacy settings. All his posts, even past posts, should be private—available only to friends. Make his passwords private. His friends should not be able to post anything on his accounts. Delete inappropriate posts.

Focus on creating a positive reputation. He can share articles and photos about issues he cares about. Perhaps he can even try his hand at writing a short blog or two.

Follow colleges he's interested in attending. If he sees something that interests him, he should reach out to the school.

Remember the most important piece of advice: Always think before you post.

This year our program will be running Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday after school until 4:45PM, and Friday 1:00 to 3:00PM. There is no program on Monday. Carol Greet and Veronica Risch will be organizing the program and can answer any questions you may have. Applications will be sent home with your student.

The Ten Sleep Branch is in need of a year round part time employee. If working in a library has always been on your bucket list, then now is the time to apply! Applications are available at the front desk. Please direct your questions to Karen Funk.

Yes. The Ten Sleep Library will be expanding its space! Because of a Community Development Block Grant we will be adding a 20 ft x 80 ft addition to the library. The finished product will have a meeting room available to the community, more seating, and more storage for the library. We are working hard at creating a comfortable destination for the patrons, guests, and the many tourists who use our library. Drop by and let us know if you have any ideas or concerns about the interior of the building. More tables? More outlets for your laptops? Comfortable chairs? What is important to you? Let us know!

The Library will be closed Saturday, October 7th and Monday, October 9th for Columbus Day.

Ninth Grade Authentic Learning Project and Fundraiser

To pay for Junior Prom and a Senior Trip, each secondary class at Ten Sleep does fund raising activities. It is important for every member of the class to be involved in these activities. The ninth grade class is working on fundraising to meet these goals. Fundraising projects should provide our friends and neighbors with quality goods and services. The activities also ought to be valuable learning opportunities for our students. These activities ideally will help the students develop life, career, and business skills that lead to self-reliance and prosperity.

The ninth grade class is currently working on an authentic learning project to learn life skills and earn funds for prom and the class trip. The class will be using stencils to paint addresses on the curbs in front of buildings in Ten Sleep. Government funds are not available for this project, so students will provide the service and solicit donations from residents and business owners. The goals of this authentic learning project are to gain skills in effective project planning, process research, practical math, interpersonal communication, public speaking, written communication, and technical applications. The overall objective is to give students some basic skills for starting a small business.

The project includes the following activities:

Students will research and practice the curb painting process.

Students will determine the materials and supplies needed, and develop a project budget.

Students will prepare a press release and letters for residents and business owners explaining the project, benefits of the project, and fund raising goals.

Students will prepare, practice, and present the project proposal for Town Council.

Students will apply for necessary permits.

Using satellite images and completing walking tours, students will create a detailed map of town identifying all buildings with correct address numbers.

Students will work with town administrators to identify the correct numbers on buildings without address numbers.

Students will develop and practice a sales pitch to be delivered to residents and business owners.

Students will hand deliver project letters to each address with a paintable curb.

Students will paint the curb addresses at the entrance of each building.

At each residence or business, students will leave a donation envelope and notice that the curb painting is complete.

Ten Sleep Math, Reading, and English teachers are assisting with instruction for this project. Students will always be supervised by a responsible adult and they will work in groups of two to three students. In the real world, individuals must work with many different people, not just their friends.

To prepare students for this, working groups will sometimes be created at random. Each student will work every other student in the class. Permission slips will be sent home before the class begins door to door contacts. Parents are

Students who need to make up a missed performance can participate before any home athletic event. On Saturday, September 30th high school students are scheduled to perform for the HS football game and our middle school students are scheduled to perform at the HS volleyball game. For Tuesday, October 3rd, high school students are scheduled to perform at the HS volleyball game. Please note, all students are welcome to sing at any of these events as well.
