Principal's Corner

We are well into the second quarter of our school year and before we know it, it will be Christmas time and the close of the first semester. I am quite proud of all the accomplishments of our students this school year and I feel we have many things to celebrate and positive experiences happening here at Ten Sleep Schools.

We wanted to try a new idea in the Principal's Message called Policy Highlight. Our policy highlight will be to select a policy in the handbook that may be less-known or something that we would like community members to help improve at our school for the benefit of our students to achieve greater academic success. The policy we would like to highlight this month is a section of the attendance Policy 5.21 which states the following:

Any student not in his/her assigned classroom by the time the second bell rings will be considered tardy for that class period. Students will not be considered tardy if they have a signed written pass from their previous classroom teacher or administrator.

Any tardy over ten (10) minutes in length without a written excuse from a teacher or administrator will result in an unexcused absence. Parent/guardian may excuse a student from a tardy that is over ten minutes in length only from first period and must do so by the start of the next school day. This will result in an excused absence for that period.

A student is allowed 4 tardies per class per semester. On the 5th tardy, a student will be placed on Step 1 of the discipline plan that will result in a 30 minute detention and notification of parent/guardian. For every two additional tardies that a student may accumulate, he/she will be placed on the next appropriate step on the discipline plan, up to a maximum of thirteen (13) tardies. At 13, the case will be reviewed in a mandatory meeting between parent and principal and then referred to the district's disciplinary review committee.

The reason we would like to highlight this section of the attendance policy is because we have an above average amount of students who are arriving tardy to class. We would like our students and parents to reflect on the importance of punctual attendance in the learning process. Some teachers are finding it difficult to start class on time due to tardiness and this directly takes time out of the learning process in student education. We will be discussing and enforcing this policy with our students but we would request reflection, consideration and discussion among our families who attend our school. Thank you for your help and support.

After reviewing the data collected from our stakeholder survey we realized that our school here in Ten Sleep has many positives and this school is a wonderful part of our community. There are so many things that our teachers and our parents do for our community and school that our students here truly receive a great experience and education. Thanks to staff and parents for making this school and community and wonderful place to be.

In an effort to inform the community of events, safety precautions and interventions to support a more positive and safe school environment, we would like to let you know that we have partnered with Kurt Steinke, a safety and emergency preparedness specialist. Kurt uses his specialty to assess our school emergency procedures and offers professional advice on how to improve emergency procedures and general safety at our school. A team meets regularly with Kurt to improve procedures and identify possible weaknesses and turn them to strengths.

Our team has asked Kurt to make some presentations on positive school culture and bullying prevention to our students and interested members of the community. Kurt will be meeting with grades 6-8 on November 30 at 8:00 a.m. and grades 9-12 on December 14 at 8:00 a.m., December 5th he will present to grades K-2 from 12:00 to 12:30 and grades 3-5 from 12:30 to 1:15. Please follow our school Facebook page for more information. Parents and interested community members will be welcome at these presentations and we encourage all parents to have conversations about the presentations with your students after the presentation.

Our Middle School Girls' Basketball Team is coming to the end of their season and they will be playing in their tournament this weekend (December 1st). The Middle School Girls' Basketball Team has had some real nail biting games with many of them going into overtime. They would really appreciate your support at the tournament. Practice has begun for Boys' and Girls' High School Basketball. We are looking forward to their seasons with excitement as they represent our community. Go Pioneers!

Some of our secondary students had the opportunity to attend a fieldtrip to the Heart Mountain Concentration Camp. The students learned history on-site and came away with new, rewarding perspectives. How wonderful that we have these types of opportunities to learn about the past.

Thanks for your support in making our school and community a great place to be.

With Pioneer Pride,

Parent Notes

Persistence is key to success in school and in life

It's wonderful for students to be talented and smart, but educators know it's just as important for them to be persistent. At one time or another everyone faces a challenging task or a heartbreaking setback. The key is to remind children to keep trying until they are successful. Pushing forward—even when it's tough—is a key to success in school and in life.

To promote persistence in your child:

- Talk about it. How has persistence already helped your child? Maybe he learned to ride a bike or play an instrument. What new challenge can he tackle now?
- Break big goals into small parts. If your child is determined to raise his grade in English, support him by discussing steps and helping him develop a reasonable plan.
 - Offer encouragement. When your child is working on something challenging, say things like:
 - I know you can do this.
 - I bet you'll figure it out.
 - You're making great progress. Keep at it. You'll get it.
 - It will get better. You'll get the hang of it.
 - If it doesn't work that way, try another way.
 - Focus on the process. Sure, it feels great to see an A on a report card, but it also feels great to do well on a test after studying hard. Even better, it feels great to learn! Talk with your child about his accomplishments and what makes each of them worthwhile.

A five-step process can help your child make better decisions

Want your middle schooler to make more responsible decisions? Encourage her to rely on this five-step process whenever she's faced with a dilemma:

1. Assess the situation. Your child can't make a wise decision if the issue at hand seems murky. So remind her to clearly define it by asking herself, "What's the main thing I'm concerned about?"
2. Explore her options. What are some ways your child could handle the problem? Have her make a mental list, then narrow it down to the three most sensible choices. This list-making step is critical because it illustrates that there are usually several options for solving a problem.
3. Consider the disadvantages. Have your child think about the cons of each of her top three ideas. If a certain option has a particularly serious consequence, this is a good time to rule out that option.
4. Consider the advantages. Now ask your child to figure out the pros of her top choices. Does one option have major advantages over others? Then that may be the winner.
5. Decide on a solution. Now that she's weighed the pros and cons of each possible option, your child can make her decision with confidence.

Emphasize attendance and help your high schooler stay focused

Winter break is right around the corner, and your teen can't wait. But is she ready to buckle down and give her best effort these last few weeks?

The weeks leading up to winter break are just as important as any other time of the school year. Even though your teen may find it hard to get out of a warm bed in the morning, she still has to wake up and go to school.

To help your teen stay focused and engaged:

- Evaluate how her attendance has been over the first half of the school year. Is your teen arriving at school on time every day, ready to learn? Is she going to all of her classes? If not, help her set some attendance goals for the rest of the school year.
- Ask questions about what she's doing in school. Does she have assignments that she'll need to work on over winter break?
- Encourage her to make a checklist of everything she still has to do for school and extracurricular activities. This will help her stay organized during these final busy weeks.
- Remind her that school is her top priority. Explain that you can't get out of work one day just because it's close to the holidays; likewise, she can't miss school.

Library Corner

The "Friends of the Ten Sleep Library Christmas Open House and Silent Auction" will be held on Monday December 10th from 5-7 PM at the Ten Sleep Library. This year we will have special guest Craig Johnson on hand to read his newest Longmire Christmas Short Story at 6:00 PM. Join us for Wassail, Christmas Goodies, BBQ Sliders and music by Harpist Julie Edholm. We continue to accept donated hand-made or new gift items until the day of the open house. Please bring your family and enjoy the new space at the library and visit with community members. There is something for young and old to bid on and we encourage all members of our community to stop in. Bidding will start on December 1st and end at 7:00 PM on December 10th. If you have not had a chance to stop in and see our wonderful new space, this is a great and fun opportunity.

After the Bell program for youth proves once again to be a successful program. Open to all ages, we meet Monday through Thursday during the school year. In December there will not be a program during Christmas vacation.

Story hour themes for December will be: December 6, Gingerbread, December 13, Christmas Trees, December 20, Santa. No story hour December 27th. Story hour will resume on January 10.

Special due dates can be given for materials checked out over the holiday. If we have a current email address, you will receive an automatic notice of your books being due three days before it's due date so that you have time to contact us for renewal. Update your email address! Library cards are free and we encourage everyone to make sure they have a card! Stop in and sign up for one today.

The Ten Sleep Library will be closed for the Christmas holiday December 22nd thru 25th.

FFA Nationals

The Ten Sleep FFA Marketing Team travelled to Indianapolis, Indiana, to compete in the National Marketing Plan Competition. Members that attended nationals are Zayne Cooper, Kinley Erickson, Brian Rice, Aidan Searfoss and Payton Casteel. It is a 20 hour-drive, and on our way we got to see some interesting places.

We visited the Corn Palace in Mitchell, South Dakota, and had the chance to see some of the amazing murals that were created from corn, wheat, and other farm produced products. We also had the opportunity to visit Fair Oaks Dairy Farm in Northern Indiana. There, we had the chance to see how milk is made and produced, and the processes involved with it, as well as some amazing agricultural achievements people have created throughout history.

Our marketing team made it past the Preliminary rounds, earning us a silver emblem and placing 17th out of the 35 teams in the competition. We sadly did not make it to the finals round; however, we did learn a lot about competition and how to further improve our speaking skills.

While in Indianapolis, we went to two of the general sessions hosted by the National FFA Officers. Through these sessions, we watched keynote speaker Kyle Scheele share his story of burning your regrets, and how to let go all past mistakes. Finally, we had the amazing chance to watch President Donald Trump speak about Agriculture, and the future farmers of America.

This was an incredible opportunity to have and experience, and I hope that all FFA members get the chance to at least once visit Nationals and truly experience the wonders of agriculture and hard work today.

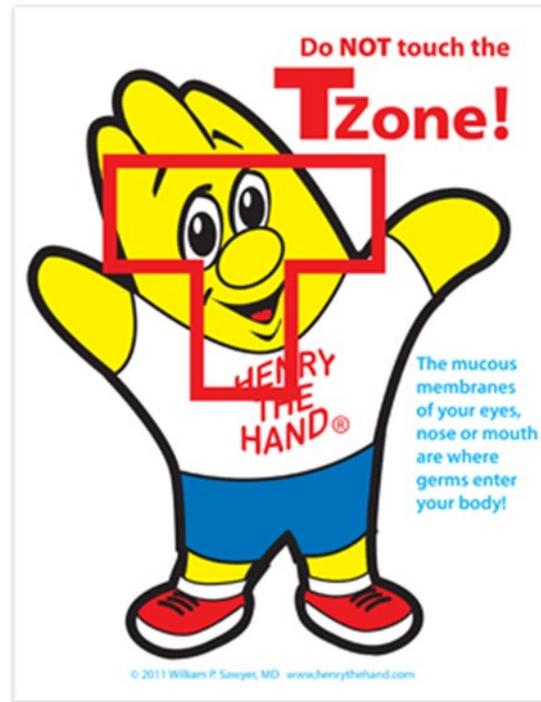

Nurse's Corner

Happy Hand Washing

There is much to celebrate in the weeks ahead! Follow these four easy steps to stay healthy throughout the holidays.

1. WASH your hands when they are dirty and BEFORE eating.
2. DO NOT cough or sneeze into your hands, use your elbow.
3. DO NOT put your fingers into your eyes, nose, or mouth.
4. GET your flu shot.

Is it a cold or flu?

Winter Concert

Season's Greetings!

On Tuesday December 11th at 6:30 PM our Ten Sleep Pioneers music department will present its Winter Concert in the gymnasium. We have grades Pre K through 11th involved and we would love to see the entire town turn out for this event!

Santa Claus will also be making a "surprise" visit at the end of the program and will have time set aside for the kids to spend some time with him getting photos and whispering that Christmas Wish-list into his ear. Come be a part of the fun and enjoy the hard work these kids have put into making some very fine music.

Performers are being asked to be at the school PRIOR TO 6:00 PM to get organized and ready to go on stage.

Counselor's Corner

Guidance topics recently include:

Kindergarten: "I like myself" discussions and how we are UNIQUE and all different.

Grade 1: How to NOT interrupt others, the importance of having patience, and WHY we need to not interrupt and HAVE patience.

Grade 2/3: Personal Space bubbles- the importance of respecting space and how to recognize others' bubbles.

Grade 4/5: Mean vs. Rude vs. Bullying- alternative ways to show emotion besides turning to mean behaviors, how to train our brains positively.

Grade 6: Hathaway Scholarship, planning for your future, and ethical dilemmas discussions.

Bullying Prevention: Kurt and Alanna Steinke have partnered with Ten Sleep Schools to provide bullying presentations for our youth. They will be meeting with grades 6-8 on November 30 at 8:00 am., grades 9-12 on December 14 at 8:00 am. He will also be presenting on December 5th to grades K-2 at 12-12:30 and grades 3-5 at 12:30 -1:15. Parents are welcome to attend their respective students' scheduled times. We would welcome and enjoy any parent or public attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Steinke, Mr. Collins, and Mrs. Wiechmann have partnered together to address some concerns we are seeing and are working on taking necessary actions to help build a more positive culture.

Ten Sleep Secret Service Club

Ten Sleep students in grades KG-4 who elect to join the club, have volunteered to be part of a community service group. If you or someone you know needs an extra helping hand, please contact the school. We would love to meet a need you may have. Currently, 17 individuals have signed up for the club. We meet during lunch times and recess times approximately twice a month. Some activities/events may occur outside of school time or on weekends. Club sponsors are Mrs. Erickson and Mrs. Wiechmann.

Little Shoppers

Little Shoppers will be held at the Ten Sleep Senior Center on Friday, December 21st. Staff and Big Pioneers will accompany Elementary students to do their Christmas shopping. Please send a list with the names of immediate family members your child will be shopping for along with money if you want your child to participate in this activity.

This activity is sponsored by the Ten Sleep United Methodist Women and is a great opportunity for children to purchase new or nearly new gifts for family members. All gifts are priced at $1.00 or less.
