Principal's Corner

Dear Parents/Guardians,
September is upon us and believe it or not, we are a month into the school year. We have had a very smooth start to the year. The days leading up to the students' return always seem frenetic, but as soon as the kids arrive everyone settles into a routine and gets to work.

We had an awesome turnout for our back to school night as parents had the opportunity to get to know new staff and reacquaint themselves with all other staff members. We have an outstanding faculty and great facilities that are the result of the tremendous community support we receive from all of you. We enjoyed showing off a little bit and having the opportunity to make initial connections with our families. We heard many positive comments from parents and thank you for the compliments and the children you send us! Thanks for all the volunteers at our sporting events and field trips. The more involved we are as a community the more our school will prosper. We value our volunteers and appreciate the time given to enrich our school.

Our student athletes are playing well and we have home games coming up in October so please show up and continue to support our teams. Go Patriots! Our student council is also active in planning events that will offer entertainment for the community. Be on the lookout for flyers around town or events posted on social media for more details. I have been amazed at the local community and I am truly grateful that I have the opportunity to be a part of this wonderful school and town.

With Patriot Pride,
Mr. Collins

Preschool

If you have a child who will be 3 or 4 before September 15, 2018, they are eligible for Preschool. They must be potty trained. The class for four year olds is Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 7:58 A.M. to 11:00 A.M. The class for three year olds is Tuesday and Thursday from 7:58 A.M. to 11:00 A.M. If your child is 3 but not potty trained they may start whenever that happens. You will need to bring a birth certificate and immunizations records. We are really in need of 3 year olds so if you know of someone who might not see this, pass the word along.

CSO

CSO will meet October 2nd at 6:00 PM in the teachers' lounge. Please use the west door entrance, everyone is welcome.

Bring your Box Tops to the school office by Wednesday October 17th to be included in our fall collection drive.

Thanks to the community for your ongoing support!

Note to Parents

When parents are overly involved in their children's social lives, their kids can't develop the confidence and resilience they need to thrive.

Swooping in and saving your child from every social challenge won't help her in the long run—it might actually hurt her.

Your child is more likely to establish healthy friendships and feel more sure of herself if she is armed with "social survival" skills. And these skills won't just help her navigate the playground successfully. They'll make her feel more confident in the classroom, too.

To help your child strengthen her social skills:

- Empower her to take action. If she comes to you with a problem, listen closely while she tells you about it. Say, "That sounds frustrating. What did you do next?" Then, give her a chance to find her own solution. Sometimes, all kids need is someone to listen to them.
- Model resilience. Talk about your own struggles and how you faced them. Studies show that when children hear stories about how family members overcame obstacles, they become more resilient in the face of challenges.

Teach her to be assertive. Help your child learn how to speak up for herself. When she wants something, ask her to make a strong case for it. Or, have a family debate night. When you encourage your child to speak up at home, she'll find her voice at school and in the world!

Educators agree that respect is an important ingredient for success in the classroom. It's difficult for teachers to create a positive learning environment in the absence of respect.

Let your child know that everyone wants respect. When someone respects us, they act and speak in a way that shows us we are worthy. Our actions and opinions deserve consideration, even if the other person does not agree with them.

Teach your child to demonstrate respect by:

- Believing in herself. Respect begins with self-respect. Your child should act in ways that make her proud of herself.
- Being on time. Promptness demonstrates respect for people's time. Your child should arrive on time for classes and other commitments.
- Listening to and being polite to others. This includes parents, teachers and classmates.
- Being someone others can trust. Your child should do what she says she will do and be accountable for her actions. When she is working on group projects, she should always do her share.
- Understanding that learning is important. It is a way to better herself. Your child should pay attention in class and participate.

Realizing that she can learn from almost every person she meets. Your child should listen to what others have to say—even if she doesn't agree with what they're saying.

Your teen will have to make all kinds of decisions over the course of his high school career, from selecting classes to facing difficult peer pressure. Help him learn to make decisions that will enable him to succeed both academically and socially.

If your teen comes to you with a problem, walk through these steps:

1. Ask him to describe the situation he is facing. Ask open-ended questions that cannot be answered with just yes or no.
2. Discuss possible choices. Help your teen see different alternatives. Encourage him to make a pro/con list and evaluate the benefits and disadvantages of every option. Talk through how different consequences could affect his goals.
3. Allow your teen to make a decision and carry it out. Later, ask him what he learned from making that choice. Ask if he would make the same—or a different—decision if faced with a similar problem in the future.

Remember: While it may sometimes seem like your teen is challenging your values and beliefs, he still needs your support and guidance to make important decisions about his future. Teens often rebel as a way to assert their independence. But with your support and unconditional love, he will develop the judgment that will guide him to make responsible decisions.

Library Corner

We are having FUN now! The After the Bell program is seeing huge success with 5-17 kids coming to the library specifically to participate in activities and fun that have been prepared by Rhonda and Carol. If your child is not signed up for the program please sign up! Come join us Monday through Thursday during the school year. All school aged children are welcome to participate. If you are an older student who would like to volunteer as a helper, come and talk to us. It will help you learn how to organize activities with a large group, learn a few leadership skills, and learn how being a mentor can enrich your life. Join us today!

"Children are made readers on the laps of their parents" is a quote I see quite often. If you are a parent or caregiver and have a preschool aged child we invite you to participate in Story Time with Veronica every Thursday at 10:00 AM. Stories and a creative art activity help spark the imagination of children.

Friends of the Ten Sleep Library are now taking donations for their annual Harvest Dinner Raffle and Silent Auction. If you have something you would like to donate please bring it to the library so we may display it before the event. The Harvest Dinner will be Saturday October 13th and we hope to see you all there. Raffle tickets will be $1.00 and available at the library or at the dinner.

October 9th is Library Snapshot Day. We celebrate this day in Wyoming Libraries by collecting comments and photos. This helps libraries across the state and the nation tell a story of how libraries impact our communities every day of the year. This could be your "photo moment". Stop in, be counted, and get your picture taken!

Also on October 9th we will partner with the Ten Sleep Senior Center at 12 noon as author Mary Budd Flitner from Greybull Wyoming speaks about her book "My Ranch, Too: A Wyoming Memoir." She will also present in the Washakie County Library the same evening at 5:00 PM. Books will be available for purchase or bring your own copy for autographing.

Nurse's Corner

Goodbye summer. Welcome fall! It's that time of year again, when the air is cooler, days are shorter and the autumn colors are blooming. Unfortunately it's also the start of the flu season. Protect yourself and your loved ones from the flu this season by getting your annual flu shot. According to the CDC, getting an annual flu vaccine is the first and best way to protect yourself and your family from the flu. They also report that, "You should get a flu vaccine before flu begins spreading in your community. It takes about two weeks after vaccination for antibodies that protect against flu to develop in the body, so make plans to get vaccinated early in fall, before flu season begins. CDC recommends that people get a flu vaccine by the end of October. Getting vaccinated later, however, can still be beneficial, even into January or later."
