Levi Collins
Principal

Principal's Corner

We are well into the final month of this school year and we are approaching our summer break. I am quite proud of all the accomplishments of our students this school year as we adapted to all the changes and new rules we placed on our students. Students and teachers have worked hard to prepare for end of year standardized exams. We will take what we have learned this year through the pandemic and improve upon our teaching overall.

Track is in full swing and we have already had numerous school records broken by students at the high school and middle school levels. Way to go student athletes for your hard work and dedication. It is fun having the opportunity to see you compete.

Students, as we prepare for summer break, remember to keep up on your reading skills and try to retain as much knowledge as possible moving forward. Parents, studies have shown that increased parental involvement results in increased student achievement. We know that most parents are already quite involved in the student's school life and any additional time shows in your student's growth.

Thanks for your support in making our school and community a great place to be. If you have any questions or comments, please call or email us at the school and together we will make this a great end to the school year.

With Pioneer Pride,
Levi Collins

Track Record Breakers!!

Congratulations to Boe Nichols. He broke the 400 meter record with a time of 51.57 seconds. The 51 year old record of 51.6 seconds was set by Clark Lyman in 1970.

Congratulations to Kiyoshi Smith, he broke the middle school mile record. Also congratulations to Kiyoshi Smith, Cameron Carter, Kendrick Lungren and Christopher Blutt for breaking the middle school record for the 4 x 400 relay.

Parent Note

Teach your child to follow four steps to achieve any goal

Children feel good about themselves when they set goals and succeed in reaching them. Having goals also helps children overcome difficulties. When they're frustrated or upset, they can keep a "picture" in mind of what they're aiming for.

When your child sets a goal, encourage her to choose one she can reach in a short time frame. Then, help her follow four steps for making that happen:

1. State the goal. Make sure your child's goal is specific: "My goal is to learn my multiplication facts." She should write it down and post it where she will see it.
2. Plan how to meet the goal. "I will make flash cards and study them for 15 minutes every night. I will ask Dad to quiz me on Fridays."
3. Talk about the goal with others. This builds commitment. Encourage your child to tell her teacher what she plans to do.
4. Do each step in the plan, one at a time. If problems come up, talk about possible solutions. Perhaps she is too tired after school each night to review her flash cards. Maybe she could study them in the mornings while she eats breakfast instead.
Don't forget to praise your child for her effort each step of the way. "I am proud of you for studying your multiplication facts this morning." And when she achieves her goal, celebrate the way her hard work paid off!

Start talking to your child about the transition to high school

A big transition is ahead for many middle schoolers and their parents. High school is a mere six months away! You and your child may be nervous—especially with the uncertainty that the pandemic has brought to learning environments. Most middle schoolers:

- Feel excitement about the opportunities high school offers. These include new friendships and more freedom. High school also lets students pursue new interests through a broader range of classes.
- Feel nervous. High school standards for academics, behavior and independence are far beyond what most middle schoolers are used to. There will likely be more students, too.
To ease your child's anxiety:
- Tap available resources. Encourage your child to talk to his school counselor and ask any questions he may have. He should also talk to neighbors or friends who are already in high school and ask about their experiences. Be sure to attend orientation sessions offered by the high school.
- Talk to your child. Share some of your own positive high school memories. Discuss the classes your child wants to take and how he will manage his schedule.
- Encourage your child. Starting high school is a huge milestone. Your child is growing up. Let him know you are proud of him and are looking forward to this new stage.

Integrity and respect should guide your teen's behavior

Even a teen with the best of intentions will make mistakes. She may lie to a friend. She may meet up with friends when she told you she wouldn't.

It's important to talk with your teen about acting with integrity. While morality is the set of beliefs that help your teen judge what's right and wrong, integrity is how she acts on those beliefs. Teens with integrity respect themselves and others. That makes them want to do the right thing.

It's great if your teen says she believes in being honest. But what does she do when her friend asks for the answer to question 10 on the test? Her decision in that instance reflects her integrity.

There are going to be times when your teen makes decisions that she knows are wrong. Some experts say that teens actually learn integrity during those times—they gain integrity by losing it.

But that only works if someone helps them think through their choice afterward by asking questions like:

- What got in the way of telling the truth?
- Were you trying to impress someone else?
- Would you have acted differently if you had been with a different group of people? When your teen makes a poor choice, she should hold herself accountable, admit her mistake and make amends. Tell your teen that integrity is like a muscle. The more she uses it, the stronger it will become.

Those students living in the country are encouraged to ride the bus to school that morning. However, please call the school so that he/she will know that you have a child who will be riding.

We would like to meet with all parents in the kindergarten room at 11:30 a.m. to discuss kindergarten readiness. This meeting will last about twenty minutes.

If you know of someone in our district who did not get a letter but has a child entering kindergarten, please ask them to call the school. We would like to have all students entering kindergarten next fall attend the Roundup.

Immunization Requirements For Students Age 11-12

Students ages 11-12 are required to receive the Tdap immunization and recommended to receive the meningococcal immunization. Health care providers and Public Health are great resources for information about vaccines and will be able to assist you and your child in receiving their needed immunizations. Please provide documentation of immunization before school starts next fall. Tdap is a booster immunization that protects against three deadly diseases caused by bacteria: diphtheria, tetanus, and whooping cough. "Meningococcal disease is a serious illness caused by a type of bacteria called Neisseria meningitidis. It can lead to meningitis (infection of the lining of the brain and spinal cord) and infections of the blood. Meningococcal disease often occurs without warning - even among people who are otherwise healthy."

<https://www.cdc.gov/vaccines/hcp/vis/vis-statements/mening.html>) The first meningococcal dose is recommended at age 11-12 and a second booster dose at age 16. Please contact the health office with any questions at 366-2233 Ext 401. For more information on Wyoming Immunization Rules go to www.immunizewyoming.com

Greetings and happy spring! Here are a few highlights as we wrap up the school year:

Grade 6 is working through their mental health unit of study. Other grades have been focused on group work and how to cooperate and collaborate in a group setting.

Grades 11 and 12 took the ASVAB test March 31 and we will be reviewing their scores with students in the next week. Also, those 10th graders who elected to take the test, had the opportunity to test on April 8. All juniors took the ACT in March.

WYTOPP state testing is underway and going well. Students and staff have been working hard to schedule and complete the state test prior to the cut off date of May 7.

There will be a Mental Health Awareness 5K run/walk on May 13 starting at 5:00 at the rodeo grounds. All ages welcome. You can do the one loop or do two laps for the full 5K. Free swag and information will be handed out. Donations will be collected for our Pioneer Pride NEEDS fund. Water and cookies will be provided at the finish line. Come out and support Mental Health Awareness.

Holocaust Speaker

Ten Sleep Schools will be hosting a dynamic speaker Friday, May 14, from 8:30 -11:00. George Eidinger, a retired teacher, will present information on the Holocaust and his parents' experiences in the Netherlands during World War II when they helped Jewish people escape the hands of the Nazis. Students in grades 6-12 will attend, and the community is also invited.

George was born in the Netherlands after World War II. His father was Jewish and his mother, a Christian, met while working in the Dutch resistance to help Jews. George's father wrote a book called Thank you, America, based on his experiences while saving Jewish people during the war from the Germans.

George taught Holocaust history for 30 years and has had numerous one-on-one visits with Holocaust survivors. George has attended a number of Holocaust presentations given by survivors of the Holocaust and attended a three-day seminar on the Holocaust at the National Holocaust Museum in Washington, D.C., in 1997. George travels all over the United States giving his presentation, and in the spring presents at high schools. He hopes as a result of his presentations, that people will have a more informed understanding of what the Holocaust was and what each of us can do as individuals to prevent such an outrageous event from ever happening again.
